Jacob's story

Jacob Stone Old Princethorpeian (2012)

Coming from a single-parent family on a low income, Princethorpe seemed out of my grasp, and yet I was not being challenged at my current school. A family friend made us aware of possible bursaries so we decided to take a look. I remember the special feeling I had upon arriving at Princethorpe and having met the Headmaster, I was convinced that here was a place in which I could flourish.

I passed the exam and a music audition, but being awarded a bursary was the act of generosity that enabled a Princethorpe education to become a reality for me.

My time at Princethorpe was filled with incredible opportunities and memories. My time at Princethorpe was filled with incredible opportunities and memories. I was heavily involved with music, playing piano and saxophone and singing in the choir. I enjoyed a wide-range of studies and without ever feeling 'pushed', I always felt encouraged to perform to the best of my ability.

I had been interested in medicine as a result of my brother suffering with a neurological condition, and this acted as the impetus for me to apply for medicine at university. Five years on I am in my final year at Southampton University.

Despite the intense workload, I am always reminded from my time at Princethorpe, that being a well rounded individual really does help and to this end I have continued with my music, accompanying the university gospel choir, directing the medics' revue, and setting up a medics' music society.

Looking to the future, neurology still remains of particular interest to me and after spending time in Malawi, I have the ambition to work as a doctor in sub-Saharan Africa at some stage in my career.

Princethorpe will always hold a special place in my heart. The Christian values and ethos which the College holds so dear will remain with me for a lifetime and I can safely say that being at Princethorpe really did change my life.

I can safely say that being at Princethorpe really did change my life.

MAKING A DIFFERENCE
at Princethorpe

Message from the Headmaster

We are very proud of all that Princethorpe has achieved in its first fifty years. As we draw to the end of our Golden Jubilee year, our Development plans focus on enhancing the education of current and future Princethorpians to ensure they are able to make the most of their potential, discovering and developing their own special skills and talents. We believe however that every child with the potential and passion to benefit from a Princethorpe education should be given the opportunity to learn, grow and develop here. With your support, we can help more children benefit from this unique education. We are asking all who recognise the true value of a Princethorpe education, to consider making a regular gift which will enable us to provide more bursaries to deserving pupils. We value a gift of a few pounds, as much as a large donation. If you carry something of Princethorpe in your heart, please consider helping us change lives in the future by supporting our development work today.

The 50+10 Bursary Fund

As we celebrate our 50th Anniversary, we have created the 50+10 Bursary Fund which aims to provide at least ten fully funded bursary places.

We are actively seeking Princethorpe supporters to help fund this exciting initiative, in addition to looking for assistance with longer-term capital projects which will enhance the experience of every pupil at Princethorpe.

The cost to wholly fund one child's bursary place for a year at Princethorpe is approximately £12,000 however through regular giving, smaller gifts from many soon add up to make a real difference. For every 84 families who make a regular gift of £12 a month, we can offer one bursary place to a child and change their life for the better.

With your help, we can achieve our goal of becoming a truly inclusive school.

Regular Giving Could you give a life changing gift?

What does £12 a month mean to you?

“It is fantastic to see Princethorpe enabling education for all; I am delighted to play a part in these exciting developments.”
